10th Annual Autism Spectrum Disorders Update

“Autism through the Life Span”

Keynote Topics/Speakers:

"Early Intervention and Brain Plasticity in Autism", Geraldine Dawson, PhD, Professor, Departments of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, Pediatrics, and Psychology and Neuroscience and Director of the Duke Center for Autism and Brain Development at Duke University, North Carolina.

"Sensory Processing in Autism" Anthony Norcia, PhD, Professor (Research) of Psychology, Stanford University

"The Autism Advantage" Thorkil Sonne, Founder and CEO, Specialisterne Foundation and Specialisterne.

A one-day conference for parents, educators and care providers of children and adults with autism spectrum disorder. This annual update will focus on new research and services for individuals with autism to optimize their long term functioning.

Presented by Stanford Autism Center at Lucile Packard Children's Hospital Stanford.

Saturday, March 25, 2017
8:15-4:30pm
Li Ka Shing Conference Center
291 Campus Drive
Stanford University, 94305
cost: $100 scholarships available
Registration and info at http://med.stanford.edu/autismcenter/